DAISY WILHARD KISITE

Daisy was born in March 5, 1992 in Temeke, Dar es Salaam. Her mother passed away in 2002 and her father in 2007. Daisy has a sister called Fatuma. After their mother passed away their father took the girls to their grandmother to live with her and he was supporting them. After their father passed away the grandmother was not able to take care of them because she is too old to work and bring in some money. She decided to find help at an orphanage. In November 2006 Daisy was accepted by SWACCO, the Songea Women and Children's Organization, a local group that is supported by the Mwangaza Jitegeme Foundation.

The Foundation provides her with food, clothes, medical and clinical services and all of her schooling needs, including tuition, school uniform, books and school supplies. Currently she is in a boarding school in Mpuguso Teacher Training College which is about 350 miles away from Songea. Daisy wishes to become a teacher, she studies hard to make sure that her dreams come true.

Her dream is to be a teacher at the new Blessings Village Orphanage when the building project is done.
